Beguilling to her bright estates. I head not if

My rippling skiff
First switt or slow from citif to cliff—
With dreamful eyes
My spirit lies
Under the walls of Parastise. Under the walls;

Unier the wails,
Where swells and falls
The Day's deep broast at intervals,
At peace file,
Blown softly by.
A cloud upon this liquid sky.

The day, so mild,
is Heaven's own child,
With Earth and Ocean reconciled;
The airs I feel
Around me steal
Are murmuring to the murmuring keel.

Over the full
My hand I trail
Within the shadow of the sail,
A loy intense,
The cooling scuse
Gildes down my drowey indolence

With dreamful eyes My spirit lies
Where Summer sings and never dies
O'cryelled with vines,
She glows and shines
Among her inture oil and wines.

Her children, hid
The cliffs samid,
Are gamboling with the gamboling kid;
Or down the walls,
With these calls,
Laugh on the rocks like waterfalls.

The fisher's child, With trosses wild, Onto the smooth, bright sand beguiled, With glowing tips, Sings as she skips.
Or gazes at the far-off ships.

You deep bark goes
Where Traille blows,
From lands of sun-lo lands of snows;
This happler one,
Its course is run
From lands of snow to lands of sun.

With the blue crystal at your lip! O happy crew, My heart with you sails, and sails, and sings anew!

No more, ho more
The worldly shore saids me with its lond uproan!
With dreamful eyes My spirit lies Under the walls of Paradise

those who have the best time in their youth have the poorest in their old age, and, like Solomon, are ready to exclaim, "Vanity of vanities, all is vanity." The best way is to raise children to work-to earn their own living-and the best place for them is in the country on a farm. It's a slow way to make money, and it's all the better for that. Money made slow is money made sure. A dollar dug out of the ground is worth five dollars made n town, and is better than a hundred dollars given to a young man. There were lots of poor fellows who never had a good healthy meal of vittels, and grew up pale and sickly, who give out pretty soon, for they were cowed and backed before they started; but I noticed that the sons of our comfortable farmers held out better than anybody. They had better constitutions. A town boy's liver is always getting out of order, and a town girl don't eat much of anything but candy and ice-cream and cake, and by the time she has had, two or three little weasel-face children, which have to be raised on the bottle, she is pretty well used up, and has to go to the springs every summer, and be doctored and physicked the balance of her career. Who ever heard of country folks going to the springs for their health? There are lots of good, strong, healthy men in the cities, but they were not raised there. Look at the Kisers, and the Wylys, and Dodds, and Mr. Marsh, and Barry, and Dr. Alexander, and Jim Dunlap, and Mr. Keely, in Atlanta. They were all brought up on a farm and
